DISMANTLER DEFINED

Section 220 of the California Vehicle Code (CVC) defines an automobile dismantler as any person who:

(a) Is engaged in the business of buying, selling, or dealing in vehicles of a type required to be registered under this code, including nonrepairable vehicles, for the purpose of dismantling the vehicles, who buys or sells the integral parts and component materials thereof, in whole or in part, or deals in used motor vehicle parts. This section does not apply to the occasional and incidental dismantling of vehicles by dealers who have secured dealers plates from the department for the current year whose principal business is buying and selling new and used vehicles, or by owners who desire to dismantle not more than three personal vehicles within any 12-month period.

(b) Notwithstanding the provisions of subdivision (a), keeps or maintains on real property owned by him, or under his possession or control, two or more unregistered motor vehicles no longer intended for, or in condition for, legal use on the highways, whether for the purpose of resale of used parts, for the purpose of reclaiming for use some or all of the materials, whether metal, glass, fabric, or otherwise, or to dispose of them, or for any other purpose.

BACKGROUND INVESTIGATION

A background investigation is conducted on all applicants and disclosure of a conviction may result in a temporary operating permit not being issued.

Failure to disclose any and all convictions may result in the refusal, denial, or revocation of your license.

Pursuant to CVC Section 11703, the department may refuse to issue a license to any applicant who has been convicted of a crime or committed any act or engaged in any conduct involving moral turpitude which is substantially related to the qualifications, functions, or duties of the licensed activity.

A plea of nolo contendere is a conviction within the meaning of this section. In addition, Article 4 and Article 6.1 of Title 13, of the California Code of Regulations (CCR) provide guidelines used by the department in determining whether a license should be issued.
